Services – Training Services

At CAF we recognise the importance of training programmes to the organization. In this respect we are equipped to organize training programmes that are customised to clients' needs such as:

On the job training: in this area, the training material is prepared to target the users and their capacity to operate with new working methods and systems in order to carry out their activities in efficient way.

Preparation of customised Management programmes, seminars and conferences so as to shed a light on the latest business & scientific developments affecting the work place, also to seek assistance from professional bodies & institutions, besides the specialised consultants that will contribute to these developments.

Clients team development: Leadership development, management development, team development, professional development and employee training can provide effective leadership, greater efficiency and stifle your competition. We can provide management training, executive coaching and leadership training to increase your leadership and management skills, and those of the key employees.

Continuous training and development of clients management and employees will increase their chances of profitability and growth. Human resource development and employee development can actually save money for businesses and we are in position to help our client to do so.

Project management training is crucial for time sensitive low margin projects. We can help our client in this area as well.

The above activities will be carried either by our professionals or through well-known training houses and seminar organizers that we have association with. Our team includes persons with many years of experience in management training and in teaching highly specialized courses.
